

Indigenous Hearing and Mentoring Course

Course Overview...

This course aims to improve performance, attendance and retention of the 60% of Aboriginal workers in the NT who have some degree of hearing loss. Participants will learn how to better communicate with and motivate these workers, as well as to understand and solve common workplace problems that are related to workers having some hearing loss.

Who Should Attend...

- Workers/Employees
- Employers
- Supervisors/Managers
- Field/Project Officers
- Job Search Agencies
- IEP Providers
- Trainers/Teachers
- Health Workers

How Will You Benefit...

- Greater understanding of Indigenous hearing loss issues;
- Improved workplace performance;
- Greater retention rates;
- Improved mentoring support.
- Accredited Course (course code: 70127NT)

About the Trainers...

Paul Nixon has much experience in working with Indigenous communities remote and urban. He also has strong practical experience in Human Resource Management and training, specialising in cross-cultural communication, diversity and change management issues. Paul has trained over 600 mentors via this accredited course.

Damien Howard Dr Damien Howard is a psychologist and educator who has specialized in issues around Aboriginal hearing loss, including employment issues. He is recognised nationally for his expertise in the impact and implications of widespread hearing loss among Aboriginal people.

Tanyah Nasir is an Aboriginal woman born and raised in Darwin. She is a descendant of the Stolen Generation's history and the Garrawa, Djugun, and Tiwi Language Groups. Tanyah is an Aboriginal educator who has worked in sector—primary, secondary and tertiary. She has 22 years experience as a teacher, program developer and deliverer, lecturer and trainer.

Course Details

When:

Block 1: November 21–25

On-The-Job Assessments

Block 2: December 12–14

Where:

38 Woods Street, Darwin

Cost:

$2750 (GST Inclusive)

NB: Funding available via Experience Plus Scheme.

Want More Information?

Email:

reception@gtnt.com.au

Phone:

(08) 8941 2112

Website:

www.gtnt.com.au

Register On Our Website As Numbers are Limited.